Course Content: This course surveys the subfield of political science concerned with the scientific study of power, institutions, structures, and change in international relations. The class discussions will focus on debates among different theoretical approaches to the study of international relations. After taking this course students will be familiar with concepts, theories, and methods used in the study of international relations.

Course Requirements: Exams: There will be four 100 point exams. All make-up exams are scheduled for Friday August 11th at 11:20 a.m. Make-up exams will only be allowed when the instructor is notified in writing before the scheduled exam and only for verifiable and excusable grounds. Your lowest exam grade will be dropped. All exams and quizzes must be written in black ink, dark blue ink, or a “number 2” pencil. Exams and quizzes not conforming to this requirement will not be graded. Students who do not exercise intelligible penmanship will be penalized on their exam and quiz grades. Please note that all final exams must be taken during the last day of class and that make-up exams are not offered for the final exam. Students must obtain a scantron sheet for all exams.

Class Participation and attendance, including quizzes, will account for another 50 points. Make-up quizzes will not be offered. Your lowest quiz grade will be dropped. Missing more than 2 classes lowers your final grade by one-third (e.g., an A- turns into a B+). Missing more than 4 classes determines that your grade is an F.

Students who arrive late or leave early will be marked absent. Disruptions – such as using a cell phone, text messenger, pager, computer or other device – will have a deleterious effect on your participation grade. The instructor requires all cell phones and pagers to be switched off during class. Electronic devices, including language translation equipment, may not be used during exams. Recording devices may not be used at anytime. Late assignments will be penalized 25 percent per day beyond the due date. Incompletes will only be offered when requested in writing on behalf of a student by the Chair of the Department of Political Science or the Dean of the College of Liberal Arts. All grade disputes must be in writing. Students who expect to miss class because of the observance of a religious holiday will have an opportunity to make up missed work given that the instructor has been notified in writing regarding the anticipated absence by the last day of late registration. Students who expect to miss class due to an officially sanctioned, UNLV activity (e.g., intercollegiate athletics) must notify the instructor in writing at least 7 days prior to the anticipated absence and provide written verification of participation.
